

How much did life change from the Stone Age to the Iron Age?

Key historical concepts

• Significance

Chronology

- Farming began around 4,000BC, which lead to the first permanent human
- from Wales to Wiltshire using logs. This would have been a huge effort for

- During the Iron Age, tribes lived in settlements and had leaders. Many tribes lived on hill forts which were built for protection

Key vocabulary hunter-A person who hunts animals and gathers plants for food. aatherer The new Stone Age, when farming Neolithic began and people settled in villages. A metal made from copper and tin, bronze used for making weapons. A strong metal used for making tools, weapons and other objects. hill fort A settlement built on a hill, often with defences like walls and ditches.

Timeline

2.5 million years ago	Early humans start using simple stone tools
900,000 years ago	First evidence of humans in Britain
4000BC	Farming begins in Britain. The Neolithic period begins.
3100BC	Construction of Stonehenge begins
2300BC	Bronze tools and weapons are introduced in Britain. The Bronze Age begins.
800BC	Iron tools and weapons are

Big Ideas - Our Learning Journey

Year 1/2

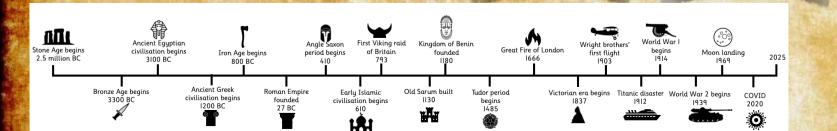

Society - Seaside, Great Fire of London,

Year 3/4

Society - Stone Age to Iron Age, Vikings

Year 5/6

Society - Benin, Mayans, Islam, Victorians, Salisbury and WWI

Reception

Society - Memory Box